A strange thing happened on my journey from Prague to Brno. I was sitting in a large compartment with 15 seats. A family, parents and four children, an old man in a black hat and a woman with a dog got in with me in Hamburg.

In Pardubice, a construction worker got on and sat with the older man. In Česká Trebová the family got off again.

In Svitavy the woman with the dog got off and a musician with a guitar got on. In Letovice the train had a stop of 3 minutes. The construction worker got off and a woman in a red dress got on. She sat down next to the musician.

In Blansko a student and a gardener with a box of flowers got on the train. The musician got off there.

At Brno central station, all the remaining passengers got off. I was stopped by the police because I had been on the train from the beginning and was to be questioned as a witness.

1. The woman in the red dress claimed that the children of the family had written all over the window panes with a black pen. Can this be true?

2. The construction worker claimed that a man in a black hat stole his key. Can this be true?

3. The woman with the dog claims that a musician broke the toilet. Can this be true?

4. The musician claims that I stole money from him on the platform at Brno Central Station. Can that be true?

How often do you answer „no“? That's the number you need.
